"Old Red Hat"

a year ago today i lost my love to the sea she was wearing that old red hat that's what they told me and if you could've seen her in it you would understand my pain

two years ago today we were drinking champagne on the shore she was reading poetry and i was watching her and if you could've seen the wind blow her hair

but i swear i could've seen her yesterday walking hand in hand out of the barber shop in a new white dress with that old fashioned banker man
