If I wanted to believe you, I guess I could And if I wanted to understand you, I guess I would But my days would go blank and I'd be freezing naked Cuz stripped of you, well, that's modestly all that I know So I'm not ready to get over you cuz

If I gotta get over you, I gotta get over every piece that puzzled you and me
If I gotta get over you, I gotta get over feeling my heart and tasting and seeing
If I gotta get over you, I gotta get over Earth, Wind, and Fire
Change the soap in the shower
If I gotta get over you, I gotta get over singing this song for hundreds of hours

So boy while you chip in some understanding, I'll make a deal with my mess
And cleaning up what I wanna be saying is my first big step
When I close my eyes and everything I run into Is stubbing me with bruises of memories of you I'm not ready to get over you cuz

If I gotta get over you, I gotta get over every piece that
puzzled you and me
If I gotta get over you, I gotta get over feeling my heart
and tasting and seeing
If I gotta get over you, I gotta get over Earth, Wind, and
Fire
Change the soap in the shower
If I gotta get over you, I gotta get over singing this song for hundreds of hours

Waffle house jokes and romantic comedies Avon cologne and credit card entries Butter on popcorn and that Mercury sable
The whole darn state of North Carolina
My pink leather jacket and cherry Hi-C
When I'm finally without you Can't figure out what'll be left of me

If I gotta get over you, I gotta get over every piece that
puzzled you and me
If I gotta get over you, I gotta get over feeling my heart and tasting and feeling
If I gotta get over you, I gotta get over Earth, Wind, and
Fire
Change the soap in the shower
If I gotta get over you, I gotta get over singing this song, singing this song

Every piece that puzzled you and me Feeling my heart and tasting and seeing Earth, Wind, and Fire
Change the soap in the shower

If I gotta get over you, I gotta stop Singing this song for hundreds of hours
