Once upon a day
You wandered my way
And lifted my nights
With dreamer's parade
The puzzle fit perfect
The story book affect
But I needed something
To make it complete

So I told my roommate
If I saw a rainbow
I would adore you
Then I opened the curtains
Praying for rain

And I pled ever wrong night
For a waterfall sky
'Cuz then I'd no for sure
My heart didn't lie
I was growing to love you
Convinced that it was glue
But did not wanna jinx my Affirmation clue

So I told my roommate
If I saw a rainbow
I would adore you
And I opened the curtains
Praying for rain

For 40 days and night
Nothing but clear skies
Most wouldn't complain
But I needed a fight
I was crossing my cutdowns
For thunder must break down
And hopes for the makeup
And a colorful sky

So I told my roommate
If I saw a rainbow

I would adore you
Then you closed the curtains
Before it rained

Then the radio went wrong
It sang me a sad song
With no falling starts to balance it out
And so that was the end to my last bf
Learned when love went wrong
Was when I wrote this song
Cuz drip drop isn't it in my hands
