I see their naked bodies dancing in the blue and black lights and wonder when the first will fall I see the eyes wide open and the tongues that lick some lips the shadows how they're creeping on the wall

There are those nights we want to rip our skin off just to feel that we are we are still alive all angels left us left us all alone there are those nights we can no longer wait for an accident love or lover we are the lost ones searching for a home

I see their faces hollow smiles I see the shadows on the tiles

Dancing... on the wall

Not even when they kiss or when they touch each other with their hands not even then they stop the dance erotic nightmare all the bodies are so wet so beautiful so hot so shivering lost in trance

There are those nights we want to rip our skin off...

I know we're lost because the world is cold and love has died we're tired we can no longer bleed so we shut out the day exuding all the madness and decay come on there is no time to sleep

There are those nights we want to rip our skin off...

I see them rise I see the fall I see them dancing on the wall Dancing on the wall
