Looking through the mirror, I see another person looking in my eyes
If I could just travel into my mind, and see the places where my true "I" hides I'm not scared to be the man who will see his face, again and again
I'm not scared of all of this I dare you to try to be in my place

They make it seem tearing the seams won't hurt too much
But it's a bet well spent
That I'm confident
When I tell you that it's gonna be
It's gonna be alright
Don't you tell me you're done
For we've only just begun
And I've been through worse
And even though it hurts
It's gonna be, It's gonna be alright

Darkness tries to leave me alone I have my soul to find my home, where we all find our perfect place, where I can see my true face I never wanted too, I never was this guy before You gave me my life so these words are for you

They make it seem tearing the seams won't hurt too
much
But it's a bet well spent
That I'm confident
When I tell you that it's gonna be
It's gonna be alright
Don't you tell me you're done
For we've only just begun
And I've been through worse
And even though it hurts
It's gonna be, It's gonna be alright
It's gonna be, It's gonna be alright...

... This is my direction, leaving behind almost everything

Working hard to make it far, but I guess time will tell, time will tell

(They make it seem tearing the seams won't hurt too much (time will tell)
But it's a bet well spent
That I'm confident
When I tell you that it's gonna be
It's gonna be alright)
