"The Garden"

I bare the weight of the birds above me. I know their song cause it's Only for me. Water the garden. Get shot in the street.
Fountains flood Cities up to their knees. Palms bend the light into shinning glory.
Cloud shades the home that will never house me. It never rains and she Never weeps. It never rains and she never weeps. We took the words From the mouths of our children. Turned them to flags running high Over mountains. Trust in this life, there is no other.

Look in my eyes
For I am your brother.
