

Kerosene

"Satellite"

Visit "Satellite" on MotoLyrics.com

Long lost friend
Where have you been?
I could write a novel
On things being alright in the end
I'm sick, become an eyesore
In the same breath I'd loose the battle
But win the war
Oh how did it come to this?
I break more than I give
Think of all the sunsets
You never told me different
You only showed me imprints
Of the faces I once cared for,
Oh my hollow heart beats
I guess Iâ€™ve already gone this far
I couldnâ€™t say it any faster

Put up with me
Watch me become an addiction
I just want some love
Corrupted radio transmission
From a satellite
That I set alight
I told you
Won't you come back soon?

Panicked on the outside
I'm a lover on the inside
I would trade it all for
A weekend at the seaside
In the things I say and do
And all the places I've been to
Whoâ€™s got time for me now?
I only stopped to kiss you
Oh wherever my heart may be
Thatâ€™s where you'll find me
Think of all the heartbreak
Think of all the mistakes
You know I still drink
Shots in the dark like you
I guess Iâ€™ve already gone this far

I couldn't say it any faster

Put up with me
Watch me become an addiction
I just want some love
Corrupted radio transmission
From a satellite
That I set alight
I told you
Won't you come back soon?

Until "best friend's" halts all conversation
Would you call me up? Would you throw me away?
Like hugs mid day to save communication
Until making mistakes becomes a desperation
When you walk out on me for someone more
Will you wish you'd said a little less
Than you did before?

Put up with me
Watch me become an addiction
I just want some love
Corrupted radio transmission
From a satellite
That I set alight
I told you
Won't you come back soon?

Visit Kerosene page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.