"Before The Tide"

There are mountains which could move for you,
There are gods which would say that's true,
I felt like an Olympian,
With a torch burning for you.
Towers will rise!
Settlements will fall!
Under your name,
Withdrawals would only be a shame.

We'd dance like never before,
In the middle of the dancefloor,
We'd stay away from all the threats,
Waiting for the sun to set.

Cos I'd hold your hand by the bar,
Your eyes they glow like a star,
Cos before the tide I'll take you on the far side.
You release the angels in me,
There's three words can't you see.
Cos before the tide I'll take you on the far side.

Kingdoms unite,
Villages will fight,
For the beauty of your light,
Such a magnificent sight,
Have you been to Galway?
Because there we can stay as runaways,
You and me we'd be the only ones.

Cos we'd dance like never before,
In the middle of the dancefloor,
We'd stay away from all the threats,
Waiting for the sun to set.

Cos I'd hold your hand by the bar,
Your eyes they glow like a star,
Cos before the tide I'll take you on the far side.
You release the angels in me,
There's three words can't you see.
Cos before the tide I'll take you on the far side.

Cos I'd hold your hand by the bar,
Your eyes they glow like a star,
Cos before the tide I'll take you on the far side.
You release the angels in me,
There's three words can't you see.
Cos before the tide I'll take you on the far side.
