For the man who has his mind at ease, heaven is not hard to find.
Itâ€™s the man who starts to see too much that in the end is blind.
I was once trapped in a personal hell and itâ€™s me I had to remind,
Itâ€™s not gold â€”n jewels and inanimate thrills upon which my life is defined.

Give me a simple home with a good roof,
And a warm belly with enough food.
Give me a lovinâ€™ gal to snug up next to,
And a carinâ€™ dog for when Iâ€™m feelinâ€™ blue.

Give me a simple home with a good roof,
And a warm belly with enough food.
Give me a lovinâ€™ gal to snug up next to,
And a carinâ€™ dog for when Iâ€™m feelinâ€™ blue.

Iâ€™m steppinâ€™ back from the noise and lights to tighten down the ties that bind.
Iâ€™ll hold close all that reciprocates and let the rest unwind.
The walls that held me are crumbling down Iâ€™ll no longer be confined,
Iâ€™m done with where Iâ€™ve been before and
Iâ€™m settinâ€™ free my mind.

Give me a simple home with a good roof,
And a warm belly with enough food.
Give me a lovinâ€™ gal to snug up next to,
And a carinâ€™ dog for when Iâ€™m feelinâ€™ blue.

Give me a simple home with a good roof,
And a warm belly with enough food.
Give me a lovinâ€™ gal to snug up next to,
And a carinâ€™ dog for when Iâ€™m feelinâ€™ blue.

Give me a simple home with a good roof,
And a warm belly with enough food.
Give me a lovinâ€™ gal to snug up next to,

And a carinâ€™ dog for when Iâ€™m feelinâ€™ blue.
