

Ace Frehley "Something Moved"

Visit "Something Moved" on MotoLyrics.com

You know that something's out there
Just like those things under the bed
A fear you knew when younger
Sometimes real in your head

But it ain't no apparition
It won't pull things down into the rug
You wish that you could wake up
Both the pinch and the pin, they draw blood

And something moved, it's out there
Someone knows you're there

Your eyes are dead and broken
Fixed in a stare without a blink
You see but don't believe it
Like a wino swearing off a drink

You live in fear for daybreak
Some warmth and comfort from the sun
All sense of time escapes you
'Cause when you look up at the clock, it's only one

And something moved, it's out there
Something knows you're out there
Something moved, it's out there
Someone knows you're there

Something moved, it's out there
Something knows you're out there
Something moved, it's out there
Something knows you're out there

Something moved
Something moved, oh
[Incomprehensible]

Visit Ace Frehley page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.