One day, tripping your run
Someone or something you've done
Made you feel like the only one
Not to belittle your wounds
But maybe it's wrong to assume
That no one else could know your pain
But looking ahead
You have the choice
To grow from this moment
And live to rejoice
It's not over yet
You have the choice
So pen a new story
And give love a voice
And you'll be the one to show off your dreams
And you'll find your voice and remember how to sing
You'll be the one to show off your dreams
And you'll find your place in the story of the King
I know
I've been in your shoes
It's rough
It's tougher than tough
But maybe you need to learn some things
So give hope
An ear to be found
And you'll hear
The faintest of sounds
Yes you'll hear drums of beating change
It's not over yet
You have the choice
So pen a new story
And give love a voice
And you'll be the one to show off your dreams
And you'll find your voice and remember how to sing
You'll be the one to show off your dreams
And you'll find your place in the story of the King
You have the choice
To live and rejoice
So pen a new story
Where love has a voice
This is the story

Of Him and his glory
And how at your weakest
You found Him to live for
You'll be the one to show off your dreams
And you'll find your voice and remember how to sing
You'll be the one to show off your dreams
And you'll find your place in the story of the King
And you'll find your voice and remember how to sing
You'll be the one to show off your dreams
And you'll find your place in the Grandest story
Ever told where
You are loved by a King
