The kids can poke me with a stick
So they could see if I'd really move
They think I'm sick
But if I am that's nothing new
It's just these signs that say that I'm too busy
Trying to entertain
But it's ok, I'm quite sure that I'll fail

So just give me one of those bars
Where I have never been Where everything's free of charge
And I could prove what that really means
I think it would be good for my heart
If someone would take care of me

You said a shotgun solves it all
You said it a thousand times before
I just get bored
I'm more content than I afford
I need some more, I don't know what
Just fill me up, come on and fill it up
And raise a glass for me
Come on, make me numb before you leave

We've heard them talking about these bars
That I have never seen
But if it's good enough for the stars
Then I guess it's good enough for me
I need someone to save my heart
Because now it's bothering me

And you tell me it's beautiful
And that I don't see it all
That my eyes are blurred by shame
But that's impossible
I tell you you're beautiful
But that's not the point at all
The point is that I'm too drunk and my beauty is built up by chemicals

In the hustle of the day, we're all inclined to miss
