Verse:

You know him well he's got a story to tell he's mysterious like 'the blaze'

He would sit in his shop he'd stare at the clock
no 'custies' yet today

All that we know, is he lived all alone
I guess girls don't like wigs

He ate power bars and watched movie stars did you eat at Port of Subs today?

Chorus:

Steve Bradley, you'll always be king Steve Bradley, we know you wear a wig Steve Bradley, you always put on a show Steve Bradley, please tell us where did you go?

Verse:

Store was always hot he worked out a lot store special was always disc When Christmas time came the mall wasn't his game
"I do all my shopping right over there"

When you're at home and you sit all alone what kind of movies do you watch?

Do you prefer to watch 'Rambo' but somehow watch 'Rambone' now you know that's kinda what I thought

Chorus

Bridge:

Remember when those guys came in he thought they were thieves told them no shopping

Remember 'the Steves' the laserdisc sleeves expensive posters, little magazines

Remember his chair, his greasy hair the notes that he wrote, the deli's right over there

Chorus
