"Big Ben"

Centuries long, day after day
A tune kept tolling over London
Big Ben's bells got very famous
So all the others were redundant
Since the 80's it slightly changed
But no one paid any attention
'Cause the tune it plays is very simple
But the words must come straight from your heart
We like heavy, heavy metal
We like heavy, heavy metal
I don't know who made that tune
But that really doesn't matter, does it?
All I know is that it should be known
By every fucking metal maniac
There are lots of us, let's unite & rejoice
If you don't know how just use your voice
It's a simple tune so it won't take long
Take a breath & sing this song
We like heavy, heavy metal
We like heavy, heavy metal
Centuries long, day after day
A tune kept tolling over London
Big Ben's bells got very famous
So all the others were redundant
Since the 80's it slightly changed
But no one paid any attention
'Cause the tune it plays is very simple
But the words must come straight from the heart
We like heavy, heavy metal
We like heavy, heavy metal
