

Anna Coddington

"Underneath The Stars"

Visit "Underneath The Stars" on MotoLyrics.com

Looking out, it draws me in
I watch the planets rise, then explode again
The sun was in my eyes, and I stared straight back
It will take more than the universe to burn what we have
And I, for one, will not have that

Underneath the stars, watching from the bay
You were on the beach, calling out my name
And I was in that boat, drifting out to sea
Clinging to a lifeline, your love for me

In the dark it's hard to adjust
When every single star is a threat to us
The moon is overhead, falling in our eyes
But if it lights up this line between us
It might save our lives

Underneath the stars, watching from the bay
You were on the beach, calling out my name
And I was in that boat, drifting out to sea
Clinging to a lifeline, your love for me

Visit Anna Coddington page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.