"Milk And Honey"

I'm sick of waking up alone,
Honey I'm pleading
let's put away the sticks and stones,
be human beings
Cause I have the sense to be afraid to be a fool, oh
I have the sense to be afraid to be a fool, oh

You push me out,
you push me out again
You push me up,
you push me up against a wall, oh

You told me once your body flowed with milk and honey Whatever happened to our boy inside your tummy?

I have the sense to be afraid, to be a fool, oh
but I'm on the fence to make you stay or to be cruel, oh

You push me out,
you push me out again
You push me up,
you push me up against a wall, oh (x2)

You perfume covered helpless louse, look on the bright side.
See, every time you laugh out loud,
I'm crying inside

But I have the sense to be afraid, to be the fool, oh Try commonsense. Make me believe, believe in you cause...

I should have known yeah, I should have known
yeah, I should have known
you'd kick me hard when I'm on the ground, oh
you'd kick me hard when I'm on the ground, oh

I'm sick of waking up alone,
Honey I'm pleading
let's put away the sticks and stones,
be human beings
