It's like something out of a story, made up in your mind
You say you wish it was like this And then it is, and all of a sudden You're on a plane and it's on it's way to a place you've never been
And if you blink then you'll miss it But you're just trying to figure out where your head is Cause it's midnight again and here I am Just trying to figure out where the year went

And if anyone's left to listen
It's all startin' to hit home, home

A place that I don't know anymore
Every time I walk out the door, it's like a big tug of war To my head and my heart, my thoughts and my dreams
But if I don't know what I want, this is what I need

We weren't afraid to dream a little bigger, Believe me I wasn't born a singer
But I was born with a big heart, raised right Dad taught me never give up without a fight And we did, some kids, if we'll win, it's way too close to call
But I still catch you up, where we left off, where we left off

Do you know the feeling that you get When you accomplish something you work for on your own Like 30,000 sold, or around a thousand shows we played They can't take that away, so hate the words I say or me
But they can never take that away

It's true, too many people believe in what we do It's insane to me, cause I remember being in high school Writing words up in my room, and those same words became tattoos

And helped some people make it through, enough to save a life

Who am I to save a life, but you saved mine
But you saved mine
And I think I'm finally seeing, things clearly now
This is my resolution
