I'm holding it together by a single thread
It's way too late to say the words I should have said
If heartache is the measure of a broken dream
Then I must be the biggest fool that's ever been

Her love is the sweetest thing I'll ever know
Everyday I pay the price for letting go
If holding on to nothing counts for anything
Then I must be the biggest fool that's ever been

Like a classic Shakespeare tragedy
Starring me losing you
That's why I'll go down in history
There'll never be a bigger fool

If yesterday's for teaching me where I went wrong
Tomorrow surely holds the key for movin' on
And if I choose to treat forgiveness like a sin
Then I must be the biggest fool that's ever been

Like a classic Shakespeare tragedy
Starring me losing you
That's why I'll go down in history
There'll never be a bigger fool

I'm holding it together by a single thread
It's way too late to say the words I should have said
If heartache is the measure of a broken dream
Then I must be the biggest fool that's ever been

If holding on to nothing counts for anything
Then I must be the biggest fool that's ever been
