I'm in love with machines and magazines I spend my nights cutting and pasting all my dreams the sound of music plays against white noise I'm just a mix tape junkie with too many toys and too many books to write to get any sleep tonight

I'm so crazy, baby
you're sane
maybe it's a good thing we can't be together
I'm so crazy, baby
you're saying
"maybe it's a good thing

I'm in trouble with the depth that lies beneath I fill my spaces with cliches so broken in if melody bears all the weight, I'm sure sophistication's lost on every single word got too many hooks to write

to get any sleep tonight

I profess I am the king of too much of a good thing
