all day
waiting staring down

i'm breaking the wall down you built it to high i'm taking a moment to really ask why i think when i slip up i let myself down i'm back to the time when you bush me around

i don't know when to listen where to rush to decision name a place and time am i alone in this prison?
what can make you mine?

you think it's fine to forget it occurred i think pretending's a little absurd you think it's about time i started to grow i think there's too much i'm too eager to show are you sick of the waiting? are you looking for the light ahead?

are you too busy depating?
is your catalyst the song in your head? i'm gearing up to leave the comfort zone keep yo ur perceptions 'cauase i've got my own i found the answers buried in this noise the source of new poise at the top of the inning i'm only just beginning
