We need everyone's attention!
There are words that must be said
We will never bite our tongues again,
Because everything they hold is the greatest lie.
And I watch the sun go down over an empty street
But no one of us sleeps tonight.
We are the ones who must make a stand
As it all comes down to this
And even though we at times seem helpless,
We must always strive forward

On the brightest path I recall your name.
Yet the shadows settles in for the very first time.
Hands are shaking cold. heartbeats racing fast.
Tonight it's heart and soul versus none.

Don't lose hope
This isn't over yet
We are staring at the beginning
We will not stand for the business of our living.
Come on and dance away another year of disaster!

We need everyone to listen up! to the frailty words that we say!
Bring back our fucking strength - pick up yourself
In a word filled with hate -
We are the hope!
We are the hope!

We've been sleeping for ages but never once did we dream about this.
That the bitter tast of disillusion is just enough to keep us underneath the surface.
Now I can't change my past, but who the fuck are you to predict my future.
The shadows we cast define our soul purpose. therefor
our wings must be broken

It's in our hands and we need everyone's attention,
That hand in hand we will walk these streets with more pride and courage than ever before.

On the brightest path I recall your name
Yet the shadows settles in for the very first time.
Hands are shaking cold. heartbeats racing fast.
Tonight it's heart and soul versus none.
Days like these wont last forever!
