In the all night Cafe, on the motorway shoulder
She is maybe fifteen, he's maybe two years older
The jukebox keeps on playing their favourites song forever
Meanwhile 'cross the table, they sing the words together

Young Love - Too much too live with Young Love - Too much too pay
Young Love - Nothing is fair - they say, they say
Young Love - It's like a bad dream
Young Love - Always the same
Young Love - Who understands it - they say, they say

Her mother say's she's too young to think of getting married
But what does she know, she can't tell her where her dad is
They argue 'bout the boy, her mother say's he's bad news
So now they're gonna run away and find their own values

Young Love - Too much too live with
Young Love - Too much too pay
Young Love - Nothing is fair - they say, they say Young Love - Seems like a bad dream
Young Love - Always the same
Young Love - Who understands it - they say, they say

Sitting on the night train, such beautiful young lovers Outside the world it went by, they only saw each other Baby, that's how love is, if we really knew it Never stops in this world, it's only passing through it

Young Love - Too much too live with
Young Love - Too much too pay
Young Love - Nothing is fair - they say, they say
Young Love - It's like a bad dream
Young Love - Always the same
Young Love - Who understands it - they say, they say
