meet me at midnight
the broadcast tower high above the hollywood sign you bring the explosives and i'll bring my radio... radio everyone look up for miles around to witness this beautiful sight we'll set bonfires, pretend it's the fourth of july this is the starting of a brand new revolution bite the hand that feeds stand up and fight against the messages that they're sending

stop their frequency

you're always talking
it's neverending
it's about time that we turned off the radio call the request lines and tell them that it's over you're always playing

all of the same songs
over and over again
it's about time that we all turned off the radio we'll listen to b-sides and sing along to anthems of the years gone by integrity and honesty will prevail tonight when it's all over

one question still remains why so so many bands never make it to the radio?

look outside your FM dial they're preaching lies in 4/4 time

our generation without a voice is stripped of pride
