While Kansas city sleeps cloaked in the twilight of this valley at this church cross standing roadside from a tree
I keep driving to the most desolate seclusions my blackest secrets still imprison me
and why don't we say what we really feel?

Whenever things are at their best...
whatever lies will help you rest
whenever things are at their best...
why do we wait for it to fall apart?
fall apart

Welcome to the after-taste of cheap wine and bad decisions
my heart trembles in this morning prayer
I can't turn my eyes
from this inner most seductions but still somehow you found me there
and why don't we say what we really feel?

Whenever things are at their best...
whatever lies will help you rest
whenever things are at their best...
why do we wait for it to fall apart?

It's my mistake to say
I'm not the world safest bet
I've never been too good at being good and its probably sad to say...

Whenever things are at their best...
whatever lies will help you rest
whenever things are at their best...
why do we wait for it to fall apart?

Whenever things are at their best...
whatever lies will help you rest
whenever things are at their best...
why do we wait for it to fall apart?
