The rain shadows my long lost dreams one more mirror lays in shattered glass this night in black can't take another breath i stand alone i stand encased in stone on my knees visage haunting me your words never saved me ever comfort wrapped around me never spirit is willing but the flesh is weak start out a curse that must be done candle blazing in a way seem alive the part of me that's human fades away on my knees this killing me your words never saved me ever comfort wrapped around me never set to sing a rain song wash away all the pain one word takes it all away but the flesh is weak
