Silver tought spoke all the lies a thousand times new wrestle with a choice a thousand more you even listening point out to the glistening sea i say the sea it lies lies like every gust of wind wind that whispers ever sight sights i can barely hide disgust disgust of every shape shapes that set loose my rage for this black sky onlyone wholl fear this day are cowards take my hand I'll show you the beauty of death point out from the other side I'll say the sea is full of life full o life like every wind whispers every sight many sights i should have seen in a different light i wish i could see that bright sky one last time only ones wholl fear this day are cowards take my hand I'll show you the beauty only ones wholl fear this day are cowards take my hand I'll show you the beauty of death I'll never know how hard you tried you'll never know my sacrificethese torn out wings cannot fly im sorry if only you saw the light the darkness took over every shred of caring i ever had I'll never know how hard you tried you'll never know my sacrifice im sorry if only you saw the light these torn out wings cannot fly
