For this is for all that is mine,
The sinners have been saved,
And the saints have been damned
To this world for your hands create a better fate

The sins that you made are washed away
And I pray to god he keeps you calm
For god himself could not make this a perfect place for me
The sins that you made are washed away
And again I heard him say
At your hands deliver me

But son you can wake up now
The walls you built have been brought down
The sins that you made are washed away
And I pray to god he keeps you calm
For god himself could not make this a perfect place for
me
The sins that you made are washed away
And again I heard him say
At your hands deliver me

We came from his hands
But son you can wake up now
The walls that you built have been brought down
The sinners and saints have been damned
To this world and creations of two hollow vessels
You've grown to love
