I can check out any time I like
Nothing hurts like brave tomorrows
At the end of your line
Close the door and hide the phone
Nip the bud and steal the branches
That you're leaving behind

I should have told you that's not the way
That's no way to break my heart
I should have told you that's not the way
That's no way to break my
That's no way to break my heart

I could tell by the way you walked
I could tell by the way you gave me
What I knew wasn't mine
Doesn't matter if it's all night long
Doesn't matter if you're gone by Monday
Just as long as you're right

I should have told you that's not the way
That's no way to break my heart
I should have told you that's not the way
That's no way to break my
That's no way to break my heart

I don't know what side you're on
I don't know what makes you happy
Except watching me cry like a ghost
In an old hotel
Hanging onto bits of nothing
I'm leaving you now

I should have told you that's not the way
That's no way to break my heart
I should have told you that's not the way
That's no way to break my
That's no way to break my heart

I should have told you that's not the way
That's no way to break my heart
I should have told you that's not the way

That's no way to break my
That's no way to break my heart
