Love will give wish to all the people
Awake from your dreams
As though to comfort a crying baby [1]
What should we do for the world
I shall shake this world
And softly calm the screams

Even if we chase the garden of light
Still heaven's wrath shall touch us

You will never let go
Raise your eyes to the white moon of the pebble forest
Call back the memories of treasures
From a faraway time

Love will give wish to all the people
If I hold you in my arms
Then I also embrace sadness
What should we do for the world
I shall enshroud this world
And the people will walk onwards
From the end of their heart-breaking history

On this ruined earth
Remains one flower
Turning it's face toward the sun
As though it shall yet bloom

This world is full of beautiful things
Greenery spread out under the all-encompassing sky
You think of your beloved homeland
I live

Love will give wish to all the people
When tears transform your smiling face
Then so shall this world be transformed [2]
What should we do for the world
I shall embrace this world
And the people shall continue to be satisfied
By the deep love of the sea

Flames fall among a city where people try to escape

Sin is in the eyes of starving children
Until the day the fairytale bluebird's shadow
Is reflected here

Love will give wish to all the people
Can the helpless hands I extend
Save someone someday?
What should we do for the world
I shall shake this world
And someday calm the screams

Love will give wish to all the people
If I hold you in my arms
I fight sadness with all my strength
What should we do for the world
I shall enshroud this world
And the people will walk onwards
From the end of their heart-breaking history

Love will give wish to all the people
When tears transform your smiling face
Then so shall this world be transformed
What should we do for the world
I shall make this earth shine
And the people will continue to carry
The great love from the sky
