

Alan Cumming

"Dance And Dance And Smile And Smile"

Visit "Dance And Dance And Smile And Smile" on MotoLyrics.com

I'm always loving someone more than they love me Lord, I wish that just this once that's not how it would be
I always try too hard when I find someone new God, I wish that just this once you'd need me more than I need you

I danced to please my father just to win one glance
Some sign of his approval
I danced and danced and danced and danced
I smiled to make my mother proud, I was her child
To win some small affection
I smiled and smiled and smiled and smiled
My books and bikes I bartered to try and buy a friend

Now I've grown this heart i own is the currency I spend and spend and spend

And in the end I will give you everything I own
Sure you never want me for myself alone
Oh how I hate the way I am always trying to impress Lord, if I could love me more than I could love you less

And if I could love you less I would not confuse you dancing dancing smiling smiling
'Til of course I lose you

Visit Alan Cumming page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.