The love you thought was dead and gone
Somehow keeps on hanging on
Even when your heart has left it far behind

Just when you have turned the page
It seems to find a way
And there it is again every now and then

Every now and then
That ol' feeling comes around
Every now and then
I see your face in another cloud

And every now and then
Some old something
Takes me right back again
Every now and then

You can finally breathe life in
Without wondering where she's been
Go to sleep at night without her on your mind

In a second it appears
Followed by familiar tears
Like a long-lost friend every now and then

And every now and then
That ol' feeling comes around
Every now and then
I see your face in another cloud

And every now and then
Some old something
Takes me right back again
Every now and then

And I know it's all for nothin'
There's no goin' back to way back when

But every now and then
That ol' feeling comes around
Every now and then

I see your face in another cloud

And every now and then
Some old something
Takes me right back again
Every now and then

I still love you
Every now and then
