The horizon, now as dark as the crimes that brought them here, is filled with my impending dread my foolish actions will cost so many good men Achilles has come...

a thousand sails approaching sent here in her name to reclaim the one I stole and destroy the walls of Troy desire leaves me numb to all the pain surrounding me storms will arise to condemn me

I will not die before her eyes...
it ends tonight

storms will arise to condemn me
I will not die before her eyes...
tragically I now must accept the penance I have earned she is cursed and tonight we die in the dawn of this, my end, I hold my sword true I must let her go...

storms will arise to condemn me
I will not die before her eyes...

it ends tonight, I am alone pain fills her eyes, I am alone

I must save my honor, I cannot let them win, the blood of many spills sacred and profane is our love in death...
