Driving round in your car
The thoughts are piled up very, very far
Do you know the time?
Did you happen to read the last three mile marker signs?

A bright flash of light
Flashed before my eyes
Along with the centipedes
The birds, and the dragonflies

But did you know, I loved you more than I could ever show?
And did you know that something deep inside you
That would fail to grow?
And did you see, there's something inside of me?
But did you know, the tales of the dragonfly?

Riding round in my car
I look up just in time to see I've gone too far
And where were we?
Well, you're not here, you're back
Where you're supposed to be

I miss your hair
I yell into the passing man but he just stares
He stares at me
Well, seeing what he wants to inside

But did you know, I loved you more than I could ever
show?
And did you know that something deep inside you
That would fail to grow?
And did you see, there's something inside of me?
But did you know, the tales of the dragon? Oh, my dragonfly

You'll come crashing round
Bleeding me and, holding me down, I think I like it
You'll come crashing round
Bleeding me and, holding me down, I think I like it

You'll come crashing round
You'll come crashing down

But did you know, I loved you more than I could ever
show?

And did you know that something deep

Something deep would fail to grow?

And did you see, there's something inside of me?

But did you know, the tales of the dragon? You're my dragonfly
