I don't care that you are ugly I don't care that I'm not cool I don't care you wear no knickers and I remember you at school I don't care you cut your tongue out or the fact that you don't speak I'll just tie you to a chair and stare and leave you for a week I don't care you have no feelings or that you lie to tell the truth I don't care you kill small creatures and at home I've kept the proof I don't care you have no morals and I don't care that I am weak I'll just tie you to a chair and stare and leave you for a week and if I cry for you it's just for myself I wish you gone more than anyone I don't care that you are useless or that your teeth are turning black I don't care your thoughts are fruitless all this and more won't turn me back I don't care that your so vacant or that you turn the other cheek I'll just tie you to a chair and stare and leave you for a week and if I cry for you it's just for myself I wish you gone more than anyone
