"Slave To Your Past"

The days they go on
And the roads are so long
You're a slave to your past
Just a slave to your past

Your love life is gone
And the woman you so loved
Is a slave to your past
She's just a slave to your past

And the roads that you saw
Won't take you back home
And they won't take you to your past
No, not to your past

Well you looked her in the eyes
And you told her it's alright
And that you'd never let her go
But you let her go
Well she ran far away
Left you confused and dazed
So why'd you let her go?
And now you're all alone

Well now there's tears in your eyes
You had to leave that life behind
And now it's in your past
So just leave it in the past

So you're left here all alone
And you're still without a home
Cause you're a slave to your past
You should have left it in your past
