One day we found, we were going through our lives
Unable to smile as we should
The season we were together, was colored white
Accumulating in my heart

Ah, when I reach out to this sky
Filled with falling powder snow
I caught you.

The warm sky is more beautiful than anything else
Falling onto our cheeks, it vanishes
Like a white flower, you bloomed

None of it matters, the distance to the moon
Made me feel better about the distance between us

Ah, when I reach out to this sky
Filled with falling powder snow
I caught you.

The stars in a cold sky are more beautiful than anything else
They fall to our cheeks and vanish
The wilted iris remains quietly trembling.
