The road where I came walking was full of gravel
Even with my eyes closed
I could gently sense your presence

One of these days
I thought about the laughing tears that had faded to dimness
Looking for a destination where they can flow to

Without walking
The words and thoughts that I had left behind are a streaming current in the wind
Changing form at the same time

I want to be with you forever
So I placed the hourglass upside-down
"If you could, do you want to turn back time?"
If I could. I'd go back to the time when I was with you

The afternoon rain
Becomes the happiness in hiding my shyness
In amazement, I embraced you

Always...
By your side...
The warmth of your body...
Doesn't seem to become cold...

On that day
For some reason
I couldn't embrace you

Your pain
Your thoughts
Everything

I want to be with you forever
So placed the hourglass upside-down
"If you could, do you want to turn back time?"
If I could, I want to understand you

In that wish
I was praying for a place where I could be
The things I had lost can't be replaced...

Always...
