Can you recall... anything from back before
It's apparent, that I'm starting to lose a sense of self Thought I knew everything, thought that I had seen it all Guess I was only naive, guess I never really learned at all

Here we go now
I've seen things that don't Make any sense, without giving hints or a sign
A sign to get us moving, a hint to get us going Back to before, back when we would adore

But now things, got my mind on stand still Leaving me to handle, something that's out of control

Moral of the story, when things seem too far away
Don't hold back or give in
Cause it's happened before, when a sure shot meant nothing
Cause somethings are left to fate

Heres a letter
Citing answers
But please take a chaser to make you make sense of all
Your senses slowly passing, I'm stuck here left here asking Responseless, it's karma at it's best

Moral of the story, when things seem too far away
Don't hold back or give in
Cause it's happened before, when a sure shot meant nothing
Cause somethings are left to fate

Learn a lesson, gave it all you got
Look on the bright side, you gave it one last shot
And in the end, you know it's all worth it
And in the end, you know it's all worth it

Moral of the story, when things seem too far away
Don't hold back or give in
Cause it's happened before, when a sure shot meant

nothing
Cause somethings are left to fate
