The chains are broken, the chains are broken.

Cut loose from the cord and torn from the body,
Here comes the wrath of the starving hungry,
Pining for something to supply these needs,
To fill this jaw of grinding teeth,
The more they keep me, then the more I'm foul,
The more I'm held, then the more I'm wild,
Fierce, untamed, callous, deranged,
They shouldn't have kept me in this filthy cage.

No,

Rise again.

I'm coming back stronger with a famished appetite,
See them all run into the pockets of the night,
I can smell their weakness, I can sense them cower,
And when I get closer they start to quiver,
They're all my prisoners in my vengeful dreams,
They're trapped in my mind, my lurid scenes,
And they can't getaway until I wake from here,
Revenge comes in my sleep.

It's too strong, can't hold it back,
It's too strong, can't keep it in,
It's too strong, it just won't rest,
It's too strong, it can't be tamed.

I'm changing, I'm changing.

From the cells to the plains, back in touch with the earth,
Building up the power, the strength and the girth,
With a robust frame and a galvanized brain,
Electricity pumps through these veins,
With the force to break this human cage,
The beast inside has served all it's time,
It's getting back what was taken away,
It's coming to fight with a dogged faith,
A zealous faith, a restless need,
A fearless loss, a shameless pride,
A savage want, a potent zest,
A voice of defiance,
Screaming for the ones who are starved by the sun,

Always locked away and the days never come,
Can you hear my cries coz I'm on the other side,
Rip down these walls coz these walls are lies.

It's too strong, can't hold it back,
It's too strong, can't keep it in,
It's too strong, it just won't rest,
It's too strong, it can't be tamed.

Wild rage, taken over this being,
With the courage and brawn, heroism is born,
And the body is torn and then ripped in two,
The deprived is eager to come and show,
Now, is the force, the power, the power of now,
Now feeling the force of the mind in the present,
Holding a fist in the face of the past,
Living the future in the time of the moment,
Redemption found, now these shackles are broken,
Can't be bound by these feeble frustrations,
The keepers who try and thwart salvation.

Can't control this, can't hold this.

It's too strong, can't hold it back,
It's too strong, can't keep it in,
It's too strong, it just won't rest,
It's too strong, it can't be tamed.

Rebellious, the riotous will,
These walls are crumbling, these walls are lies.
