As we pass through the hallways, both from separate sides
My heart drops and words from my mouth do the same as you pass me by
And I stare back and wonder will I breathe when you're gone
I couldn't stay there frozen forever, I'd never wait that long
Cause you see through me

I can't wait til tomorrow takes you away
Will I run out of words when I say
That I need you, that I want you

Now it's time to go back now to my empty bed Where I make up one more excuse why it's him and not me instead
And I stare at the ceiling with glowing plastic stars

I'll go to sleep and be rest assured that tomorrow's a brand new start
Cause you see through me

I can't wait til tomorrow takes you away
Will I run out of words when I say
That I need you, that I want you

Another place, another name, an empty space, it's all the same.
Another day goes by Another face, another name, there never seemed to be a change
I can't let another pass me by

I can't wait til tomorrow takes you away
Will I run out of words when I say
That I need you, that I want you
