"Six Million"

You're using violence
To promote your face
Your ignorance is our disgrace
So you rival nature
Subtraction cleanses
Adjust the focus on your opaque lenses

Six million before me
Won't let me raise my hands against you
Six Million human beings
Will stop me even though I want to
Destroy your thinking and erase you from this earth
I'll try to hear and keep an open ear
For what it's worth

Now it all feels crystal clear
I found your hate in here
No difference between your anger and mine

Bitterness burns in my heart
It's ripping my soul apart
And I fear this is the calm before the storm

Six Million before me
Won't let me raise my hands against you
Six Million human beings
Will stop me even though I want to
Destroy your thinking and erase you from this earth
I'll try to hear and keep an open ear
For what it's worth

Six Million before me
Vanished from your narrow vision
Six Million human beings
Ended on one split decision
