Well now I'm in control
I'm grabbing a hold of everything
If it's too much to carry
I hope I don't bury myself
And this room, this room is too cold
These words get so old
But they're all that I have
You're watching each one
And I have begun to be someone else
And it's not what I wanted
But that's what I needed

When I was high I was still low
You said you were sure but you didn't know
And I won't play your games

You might say that I lost it all
Well I take the blame, it's all my fault
And it's too late to lock up the gate
These words got out
And it's time, time to move on
And all my old friends I know they're gone
Cause I made a choice, of wasting my voice
They can't hear me now

It's not what I wanted
But that's what I needed

When I was high I was still low
You said you were sure but you didn't know
And I won't play your games
When I was up, you'd pull me down
You thought that you could just spin me around
With a move of your hand. you'd make me land
Some place New

And now it's my turn to move
And everything's spinning around
I've got too much to lose

When I was high I was still low
You said you were sure but you didn't know

And I won't play, play your games
When I was up, you'd pull me down
You thought that you could just spin me around
With the move of your hand, you'd make me land
Some Place New
