If you could just take these words away,
I was hoping that they'd be better off replaced.
I'll be waiting over there holding back the tears you made me cry.
I remember when you said you'd never leave.
I guess that's something that you made yourself believe.
If everything will change I hope I stayed the same all the time.

And there she goes, breaking my heart again.
And I can't pretend, I can barely smile.
If you could just hold it all inside for a moment, be glad to be alive.
And think of the times when there was laughter in your heart.
What did you expect me to say? To tell you please don't go away.
I hope there's a reason for the way some people are.

And there she goes, she's breaking my heart again.
And I can't pretend, I can barely smile.
And there she goes, she's breaking my heart again.
And I can't pretend I saw the end all the while.
Who's going to be there when you're sleeping watching out for you?
Who's going to tell you when you thought you knew the truth.
When you're falling on the floor outside the door everyone else ignores you, I'd be there for you, I'd always be there for you.
And there she goes, she's breaking my heart again.
And I can't pretend, I can barely smile, and there she goes, she's breaking my heart again.
And I can't pretend I saw the end all the while.
