You are the daytime, Iâ'm the night.
When there is peace we want to fight.
We are two contraries that need each other,
like heaven needs hell,
and like a son a father.

Iâ'm trying to eat soup with a knife.
Youâ're wearing a lifesuit
when you try to dive.
I love to hide myself up on the stage,
Oh! when you try to find your calmness,
Walking on the edge.

I see two different ways, itâ's to forget it,
or to remember,
I think there is no other way to start.

Get free from all your memories of war,
time to surrender.
Believe, and future will believe in you

You are the moon, I am the sun.
You walk around, I always run.
Iâ'm the silence, youâ're a loud and noisy sound,
Iâ'm the circle of a box,
Youâ're the corner of a round.

I need you as much as you need me,
if you were not, I wouldnâ't be.
So why donâ't we call things by their name?
We donâ't really understand it,
or we like this cruel game.
