Oh the news you bring
How it changes things
I could say it'll be all right
But I don't mean it right now
The hospital lights up and everyone comes back They're here for the coming thaw and cracks in the ice
From cracks in the ice

The deer and I will stay to witness the beauty of petrified trees caught in the freeze
Every mile is numb
They captured everyone warming our hands in the candlelight
The power went out
We walked around the house trying to find a bed
To quiet our heads
And listen for cracks in the ice

We part a branch to find
Our world's been crystallized
And some of the ones you see are the ones who snare your dreams
And some of those fallen things are strangely comforting to me

The deer and I will stay to witness the beauty
Suspended in still life no matter how scary
And every mile is numb
We captured everyone warming our hands in the
candlelight
The power went out
We walked around the house trying to find a bed
To quiet our heads
