So, you know it's getting old
That "sorry, I just forgot to call"
Boy, you are as fake as they come
And all my friends keep telling me that I should quit
To put down the phone and get over it
But you ain't that easy to forget
So I lay on the couch on a Saturday night Kick off my shoes 'cause I know you're not stopping by Like you said you would Guess it's just me and some tea and the TV screen
And a phone never reached 'cause I know you don't wanna be
Here with me

Well, your eyes told lies from the start of this
Your kiss might as well have meant the opposite
Oh yeah, bet you've already forgotten my name
'Cause they're all the same.

Call me love sick or something like a bug in my head
'Cause I fell for your tricks and still hope I will see you
again
And what a fool of me to think of you and still believe
Now what's a girl like me supposed to do
When she falls for somebody like you.

So I guess I'm love sick on a turbulent wind
Like a ride on a sickening storm in my head
Our only chance was your rescue
So I crank up the stereo singing out loud,
Dance like a fool, do whatever it takes to drown
Every thought of you
But let me tell you I hit the ground so fast
Even when you tore me up
I wished with everything we'd last

Well, your eyes told lies from the start of this
Your kiss might as well have meant the opposite
Oh yeah, sure you've already forgotten my name
'Cause they're all the same

Call me love sick or something like a bug in my head

'Cause I fell for your tricks and still hope I will see you
again
And what a fool of me to think of you and still believe
Now what's a girl like me supposed to do
When she falls for somebody like you

This one goes out to all the love sick people out there
This one goes out to all the love sick people out there
For all the people wishing that they didn't care
This one goes out to all the love sick people out there
