So here I am again today
I'm just trying to figure out
Where I belong where I fit in cause
I'm not quite sure where my place is Every time I get a step further
I always fall down back to the ground.

I'm trying so desperately to
Find my feet again
I really need to pick myself up off the floor
And get a move on.

I try and I try and I try to see past the
Shadows on the wall
I try and I try and I try to see past every
Single day
I try and I try and I try to see past the brick
Walls that keep on surrounding me
I try and I try and I try to see past the
Shadows on the wall
But I'm not getting anywhere.

I fall I break I cry I scream out loud for help
But sometimes I can only begin to think that
My cries seem to be going
No higher then the ceiling
Sometimes I scream so loud
I begin to lose my voice then everything seems
So silent.

Every turn every road I go down
Is a dead end
I keep going around and around in a circle
Why do I keep doing this to myself
I don't quite understand.

I'm trying so desperately to
Find my feet again
I really need to pick myself up off the floor
And get a move on.

I try and I try and I try to see past the

Shadows on the wall
I try and I try and I try to see past every
Single day
I try and I try and I try to see past the brick
Walls that keep on surrounding me
I try and I try and I try to see past the
Shadows on the wall
But I'm not getting anywhere.

I believe I can make it
I believe I can make it through the storm
I believe I can make it
I believe I can make it through the good times
And the bad
I believe I can make it through anything
That could possibly happen.
