Everywhere I went people knew my name
Written on my face were the scars of fame
I was known for the pride deep inside of me
But You knew the man I was born to be

You called me when I had no life
You reached me on a broken line
You found me when I had no home
You called me, You called me Your own

Go ahead and change my name
And write a new song with this broken man
I want a restart, so take my old heart
It's Yours to burn your brand
Go ahead and change my name
Cause the old man is deep in the grave
No more chains, no more shame
My God I've been remade, change my name

Everywhere I go I want the people to know
I'm not hiding, got something to show
Now that I'm Yours, I got nothing to fear
I want a sign on my chest written perfectly clear

You called me when I had no life
You reached me on a broken line
You found me when I had no home
You called me, You called me Your own

Go ahead and change my name
And write a new song with this broken man
I want a restart, so take my old heart
It's Yours to burn your brand
Go ahead and change my name
Cause the old man is deep in the grave
No more chains, no more shame
My God I've been remade, change my name

Go ahead and change my name
Cause the old man is deep in the grave
No more chains, no more shame

My God I've been remade

Go ahead and change my name
And write a new song with this broken man
I want a restart, so take my old heart
It's Yours to burn your brand
Go ahead and change my name
Cause the old man is deep in the grave
No more chains, no more shame
My God I've been remade, change my name

You called me when I had no life
You called me on a broken line
You called me when I had no home
You called me, You called me Your own

You called me when I had no life
You called me on a broken line
You called me when I had no home
You called me, You called, You called me Your own
