Yeah

Yeah

I've watched my dreams all fade away
And blister in the sun
Everything I've ever had
Is unraveled and undone

I've set upon a worthless stack
Of my ambitious plans
The people that I've loved the most
Have turned their backs and ran

This is the good life
I've lost everything
I could ever want
And ever dream of

And this is the good life
I found everything
I could ever need
Here in your arms

Good, good life
Good, good life
Good, good life
Good, good life

Loneliness has left me searching
For someone to love
Poverty has changed my view
Of what true riches are

Sorrow's opened up my eyes
To see what real joy is
Pain has been the catalyst
To my heart's happiness

This is the good life
I've lost everything
I could ever want
And ever dream of

And this is the good life
I found everything
I could ever need
Here in your arms

Good, good life
Good, good life
Good, good life
Good, good life

Good, good life
Good, good life
Good, good life
Good, good life

What good would it be
If you had everything
But you wouldn't have
The only thing you need

This is the good life
I've lost everything
I could ever want
And ever dream of

And this is the good life
I found everything
I could ever need
Here in your arms

This is the good life
I've lost everything
I could ever want
And ever dream of

And this is the good life
I found everything
I could ever need
Here in your arms

Good, good life
Good, good life
Good, good life
Good, good life

Good, good life
Good, good life
