Dawn breaks, the day
And their on there way
More like friends then father-son
Sunshine it seems
The cool grass so green
But it hides a lonely where-it-begun

He holds him in his arms
And remembers how they just
Walked one last mile together
Not knowing the last time ever
They walked a mile together
Sharing things he'll never forget about
One last lonely mile

So life, goes by
Young boy by the way
Let all the dreams fade in and out
He just turned sixteen
Oh, life so green
To lose before it's time

He holds him in his arms
And remembers how they just
Walked one last mile together
Not knowing the last time ever
They walked a mile together
Sharing things he'll never forget about
One last lonely mile

And he wear all the pain
To walk the mile again
Say the things they said once more
They pray he's walking now
Right beside somehow
Grateful for the time they had

Walking that mile together
Not knowing the last time ever
They walked a mile together
Sharing things he'll never forget about

They walked a mile together
Not knowing the last time ever
They walked a mile together
Sharing things he'll never forget about
One last lonely mile
